Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 04 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Fine with warm sunshine.

Today:
A largely sunny start, although some cloudier skies are possible across parts of the Pennines, and also coastal areas. This cloud soon breaking through the morning, with a largely warm and sunny afternoon following. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Tonight:
Dry, with clear spells overnight. Temperatures falling into the low single figures of Celsius with mist or fog patches forming in prone rural spots by dawn. Winds remaining light. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Saturday:
Any early mist and fog patches soon lifting. A mainly dry day follows, with sunny spells and variable cloud. Feeling warm in the sunshine. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Warm sunny spells and variable cloud expected through the period, although perhaps cloudier on Sunday. Many parts staying dry, but the risk of showers throughout. Rather chilly overnight periods.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.